Jaisalmer Fort

Jaisalmer Fort is a World Heritage Site declared UNESCO under the group Hill Forts of Rajasthan situated in the city of Jaisalmer in Rajasthan, India. Fort was built by the Rajput ruler Rawal Jaisal in 1156 AD, from whom it derives its name. (Rawal Jaisal's son was Shalivahan II; Manj and Bhati Rajputs are descended from him.) Jaisalmer fort stands amidst the sandy expanse of the great Thar Desert, on Trikuta Hill, and has been the scene of many battles. Its massive yellow sandstone walls are a tawny lion color during the day, fading to honey-gold as the sun sets, thereby camouflaging the fort in the yellow desert. For this reason, it is also known as the Sonar Quila or Golden Fort.

Udaipur

Often referred to as the 'Venice of the East', the city of lakes Udaipur is located around azure water lakes and is hemmed in by lush green hills of Aravallis. The famous Lake Palace, located in the middle of Lake Pichola is one of the most beautiful sights of Udaipur. It is also home to Jaisamand Lake, claimed to be the second largest man-made sweet water lake in Asia. The beautiful City Palace and Sajjangarh (Monsoon Palace) add to the architectural beauty and grandeur of the city. The city is also known for its profusion of zinc and marble. Solar observatory in Lake Fateh Sagar is the only observatory in India located on an island and has been made on the pattern of Big Bear Lake in Southern California. What you eat in RAJASTHAN

Niros Restaurant

Before traveling to India we gathered information about recommended restaurants that were a good price and also clean. We found this restaurant in Jaipur recommended in the "traveler's bible" (the lonely planet) and also on some forums. So, for our first lunch in town, we decided to try and find it. We had already spent a couple of grueling hours haggling over quilts and saris so we didn't want to stop and ask for any help with directions - we knew that one question could take a few hours. So, we decided to try to find it with our map. Giving away cows, cars, bikes, street vendors and beggars ... They followed us like a procession, we made the mistake of giving a few rupees to the first, and was due to give the alarm, because suddenly looked like the head of a manifestation and all behind. Seeing that would more, we stopped a tuck tuck and after price adjustment, we jumped. Although you tell the driver where you want to go, ever want to take better muuuuuuucho elsewhere, and this is not going to be less, so after 20 turns, stops at other sites, careers and insistence, we had to put "serious" and we finally The place was packed, there were only a couple of tables of "touristy", and the rest Hindus executives. Pretty dim lighting, and the service very good, though without doubt your best food (especially recommend the Thali) the basket with all kinds of chapatis (the

Om Shiva Buffet

This restaurant is located at the end of the bazaar, and like everything in Pushkar it's very easy to locate. For 100 rupees, you get a buffet with 5 different kinds of Indian food. It was honestly not bad, but they also have a menu whose local food isn't very exciting. Besides the restaurant, the terrace is very comfy and we watched a beautiful sunset over Lake Pushkar. If you go, you have to try the dessert called "Hello to the Queen", and the pizzas are especially good.

Jhrokha Restaurant

A dinner from a movie, on a movie set.

Everything starts with a boat ride at sunset from the very lading stage that you have to make a booking to go to the Lake palace, a palace located in the middle of Lake Pichola, the mountains on one side, on the other side the large Maharaja's palace illuminated at nights and is a delight to the eye. On the hotel boat you are greeted like a maharaja, from reception through all intalaciones, gardens and restaurant you feel like a you are in a fairy tale. typical Indian food but well cooked, I recommend the chicken masala skewers or tandoori .. in this white marble palace part of the 007 movie Octopussy was filmed.

Lassi en Jodhpur

Going up the road to the fort of Meheranghar you should stop at one of the food stalls calm the hillside. Most have balconies with great views of the city, and offer a drink typical of India. The lassis are like a spicy liquid yogurt may well be salty or sweet. We can distinguish between the 2. The 1st is made from fruit and is delicious and the 2nd, known as bhang lassi, is a derivative special seasoning cannabis. The latter is also really fun.

Mandawa Hotel

A lovely little hotel in Mandawa, Rajasthan. The hotel is in the city castle, a old and uncared for building on the outside, but inside remains a pleasant surprise. Much of the interior is yet to be renovated, but the areas accessible to guests are in perfect condition. It has numerous gardens and a large pool. Work on a new wing was starting (in August 2008). Good price, good service, proper rooms, clean, some had four poster beds. As the city is small it is quick to walk around, swimming is the best thing about the hotel :)
