GOA

Goa is India's smallest state by area and the fourth smallest by population. Panaji is the state's capital, while Vasco da Gama is the largest city. The historic city of Margao still exhibits the cultural influence of the Portuguese, who first landed in the early 16th century as merchants and conquered it soon thereafter. Goa is a former Portuguese province; a conquered territory of Portuguese India which existed for about 450 years until it was annexed by India in 1961.

Goa has always been visited by a large number of international and domestic tourists each year for its beaches, places of worship and world heritage architecture. Western Ghats range, which is classified as a biodiversity hotspot.

Another major tourist attraction in Goa is its heritage homes. A legacy of the Portuguese colonial regime of more than 450 years, some of these palatial homes are now converted into hotels while many are still inhabited by the people.

1 Agonda Beach

South Goa District, Agonda, Goa 403001, India

Agonda Beach is one of the rare solitary beaches in South Goa and is a far cry from its cousin, Palolem Beach, which sees a majority of tourists. The Caribbean culture seems to have swept over the place, with the locals often seen basking on the sunlit beach. Even though the beach is sparsely populated, you will find a lot of bars and restaurants where you can simply relax and enjoy the sunset. Much larger than many other beaches of Goa, Agonda is a haven for solitude seekers, with soft music often playing in the background and palm trees swaying in the wind.

2 Palolem Beach

Chaudi, Canacona, South Goa 403702, India

Just a few miles from the neighbouring state of Karnataka, Palolem Beach is the southernmost beach of south Goa. It is less crowded than other beaches in the area. Palolem doesn't see much tourist traffic. During weekends, the beach is next to empty with one or two fishermen going about their business. During the week, the beach sees a tad more activity, but only slightly so. Hardly any

POPULAR PLACES IN GOA

3 Mandrem Beach

Near Chopdem Mandrem, Goa 403527, India

Its secluded location, silvery sands, and romantic settings make Mandrem Beach an ideal getaway for honeymooners. The beach basks in the glory of its natural, scenic beauty and is a perfect spot to refresh your senses. Ever changing spiritual options including yoga, meditation, exercises and ayurveda can be experienced along the sands.

5 Varca Beach

Salcete Taluka, Goa 403721, India

The first thing that you notice on Varca Beach is the absence of crowd which is typical of the beaches. You can even cycle this beach, you will come across rows of large fishing boats which belong to the Christian community here. You can spot the red blazing glory, and the silhouettes of the fishermen throwing open their nets, come together to create a vivid image in your mind.

Since it's not that popular, you won't find a lot of shacks on this beach. There is one at kitchen, one next to Club Mahindra and another opposite hotel Zuri. Like the Betalbatim beach, Varca is also lined with pine trees.
